Nice Work! I've been doing it too but after checking realize that you've done all mine and more. You're good you!

I'm trying to find where to change the uniform colors of the opening screens?

Have yet to get that far for the info. I just keep updating the main post every so often. Just check there. Sorry for being slow but all my notes I have are not in English so I have to translate it to English. I hope the descriptions are OK. If anyone is confused just ask me for a better description. 😊

Hard to describe but added a pic for easier understanding

barry sanders opening screen:

purple = 0001A111

red = 0001A115

light green = 0001A119

light blue = 0001A11A

field colour = 0001A11D

I broke it into 2 parts as it is easier to see the colours

purple = 0001A112

yellow = 0001A114

Barry animation screen info

third animation person = 0001A982 (chest), 0001A986, 0001A98B

second animation person = 0001A990 (chest), 0001A994, 0001A99B

first animation person = 0001A9A2 (chest), 0001A9A6, 0001A9AB

Joe Montana opening screen info:

green = 0001A801  NOT the field colour as that is a different location **

yellow = 0001A802

purple = 0001A805

dark blue = 0001A807

orange? (the colour by his shoulder) = 0001A809

Brown = 0001A80B

Lineman

This is little rougher. As I have only found the location for the first one. Though it seems it is quite possible to make each lineman different coloured.....

green = 0001A0A2 once again NOT the field

yellow = 0001A0A6

purple = 0001A0AA

white = 0001A0A7, 0001A0AB, 0001A0AF

orange = 0001A0AD

red (2nd lineman arm) = 0001A0AE

gray = 0001A0AO

pink = 0001A0A5

blue = 0001A0AC

The rest of the OL. IGNORE the first OL!!!

light blue = 0001A7F0, 0001A7F4, 0001A7F8, 0001A7FC

yellow = 0001A7F6

green = 0001A7F1

gray = 0001A7F9

purple = 0001A7F5

It's funny as just when I start to get bored I find a new location I am looking for (the blimp for example). My only pain is knowing I have to play a season to see where the colour changes are for the Super Bowl halftime show. I have already changed the graphics for it and want to see how it looks.

Also having to play the first half in hopes of the right cut screen showing up is a pain too.

dude, don't under-estimate the power of the emulator - you can save states and edit stuff and go right back to where you were.

regarding the Super Bowl, just auto-sim the entire season up until the super bowl. then pick one of the super bowl teams, go in and start playing it and save states along the way, and find the things you're looking for.

btw, FCEUX 2.1.1 is the best hacking emulator I've found (for example, you can hold down the "TAB" key and fly through shit, you can auto-sim an entire season in 1.5 minutes). you can hex/memory edit on the fly (while the game's running) and all kinds of other shit that is deeper than my needs.

 X infinity.

* I can not do this as every time I change the hex code the game resets. Also I am backing up the ROM and saving as a new file each time I make changes.

I have been experimenting with the opening scene some more and man is this tedious. I have a few more spots to contribute to the list for Barry Sanders.

1A113 = top of Barry's pants, middle stripe in the helmet, half the stripes on the sleeves, and the Detroit Lions letters

1A117 = wristbands, the other half of the stripes on the sleeve

1A11C = top of shoulder pads

1A11E = inseam of pants, stripe on wall of the bleachers behind Barry

1A11F = lower outside of pants

I agree!! Mr. LaRue, you are doing a fantastic job. 😊

I personally found all these locations, but just never jotted anything down. I just did things on the fly. 😊 This will make things a lot easier to do, for the rest of the community now, thanks to you. 😊

most of the pallet stuff is down in the 0x1a000 section.
just use fceux, start the code logger, go to the screen of interest, stop debugger, and go to section 0x1a--- and find the highlighted area and start tweaking.

I'm telling you how to do this so you can easily change most things. In the time you've waited for EURO-stoner-USA-hater to respond with his "I'm too high to understand what you're saying", you could of changed every one 100 times.

most of the pallet stuff is down in the 0x1a000 section.

just use fceu,

start the code logger,

go to the screen of interest,

stop logger,

and go to section 0x1a-- and find the highlighted area and start tweaking the colors.

I'm telling you how you can easily change most things. In the time you've waited for EURO

Ah, but there-in lies the problem! I'm using a machine that I cannot format, and which currently is unable to run Fceux. My laptop died a few months ago, and I have not been able to replace it. I'm using an apartment PC that has not been backed-up and sorted through by the owner so that I can wipe it out. Currently, when I try to run any version of Fceux, it hangs for a few seconds and then a pop-up 'unknown' windows error screen comes up.

Believe me. It's been a real bitch doing what I've been doing without being able to use Fceux this past month.

I have to deal with this sort of thing, too (nesticle, fceux, and even TSB Tool on a work computer)

This is what I did to get around the problem:
run the programs straight from a USB flash drive.
try it.

BG color for any screen that shows Large Helm = 0001A8F0

BG color of most "title" screens that use black background (like PRESEASON, SUPER BOWL, PRO BOWL, etc) = 0001A610

Placing these here for my reference, also for those who may be searching for them.

Eventually, I'm going to go through Johnny's color mega thread, and reorganize his efforts so it's easier to read. I'd like to create a giant aggregate color location Bible for every identified hex color location that there is.

DATA FORMAT FOR BLINKING/CHANGING PALLETE

If next byte to process < 20. The first byte is the index into one of the BG or SPR pallete colors. The next byte is the new color to put in there.

PALLETE INDEX, PALLETE COLOR = command length of 2 bytes

If next byte to process > =20 && <= FE

Sets the number of frames -20 to wait until the next color change. Example 0x40= 0x40 -0x20= wait 0x20 frames = wait 32 frames = wait ~0.5 seconds.

If next byte to process =FE

Loop back to beginning of data.

If next byte to process =FF

Stop pallete update.

Thank you @TheNoid, that was exactly what I was looking for. I am looking for a couple more spots to edit:

1. The pink line under "Passing", "Rushing" and the stat types
2. The pink color for the ability bars (RS, RP, MS, HP)
3. The pink color in the NFL Shield on the screen after the scrolling NFL SUPER PRO FOOTBALL scrolling text in the intro

Thank you in advance to anyone who pitches in some spots!
