There are a few for nestopia, but thus far they are all web based. I've been meaning to convert my php one into a windows app, but I haven't had time.

My game stat extractor has an update for 1.39 and 1.40 of Nestopia. If you would like it then hit me up.

It is a windows exe (coded in C).

The program extracts from Nesticle/VirtuaNes as before as well as Nestopia and has added support for partials (sta taken during the game before the blue screen).

Thanks a lot! This is quite the boon for those people who don't play in online leagues but want to compile game stats in excel or a database.

It's 2019 (ten years later), and this little piece of software just saved the league I've been working on and completely made my night! Bless you wherever you are @jstout

Yes! And I finally got it to work....

Question....are the stats presented in the same order as the rosters. In some situations the players don't match up with the positions in the text report. But it does appear to be in order as the rosters.

Thanks to all.....
